

Example (1) has two interpretations: an existential interpretation, as in (1a), and a universal interpretation, as in (1b).

- (1) Every farmer who owns a donkey cherishes it.
 - a. Existential interpretation: ... cherishes some donkeys they owns.
 - b. Universal interpretation: ... cherishes all donkeys they owns.

Do note:

- (2) Examples don't need labels if they aren't referenced.
 - a. Sub-examples don't need labels either.
